

Contents

Homage	vi
Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Part I: Writing Genocide in Africa's Postcolonies
1 Genocide in Africa's Postcolony	21
2 The Holocaust and Literary Representation of Postcolonial African Genocides	61
Part II: Artistic Quests for Meaningfulness in the Hells of Postcolonial African Genocides
3 Genocide as a Tragedy: Soyinka's Tragic Vision of Genocide in Season of Anomy	101
4 Writing the "African" Holocaust: The Rwandan Genocide as a Gospel of African Decolonization in Diop's Murambi, The Book of Bones	141
5 Gendering the Postcolonial African Genocide Novel: Adichie's Feminist Vision of Genocide in Half of a Yellow Sun	173
6 The Rwanda Genocide and the Pornographic Imagination in Courtemanche's A Sunday at the Pool in Kigali	205
Epilogue	241
Bibliography	245
Index	267